Virginia this evening, following dinner, will be the principal event of interest to society in Richmond. dances at the club Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings have proved most delightful and charming affairs this year, and a large number of club members and their guests are in at-tendance upon them each week. At-tractive and informal dinners are given preceding these hops, and the gallery around the ballroom and the terraces outside are crowded with spectators every Saturday. Pool parties and luncheons take place at the clubhouse in the mornings, and the tennis courts are always well filled in the afternoons.

There are to be several parties ou

KING MANUEL'S UNCLE

Deposed Ruler of Portugal Hocking the Royal Decorations.

London, August S—The report is published here that the deposed King Manuel of Portugal, who is now making his home with his mother, Queen Amelie, in the suburbs of Richmond, has placed with pawnbrokers a number of highly valuable jewels and decorations, which were formerly worn by Manuel's father. His reported action has occasioned surprise, for since the young man occupied the Portuguese throne it is understood that he has been receiving from King George of England an allowance of $50,000 a year. Manuel is engaged to marry in September Princess Auguste Victoria, of Hohenzollern, who is quite wealthy.

CHESTNUT BLIGHT COMES FROM CHINA

Government Explorer Makes Discovery Which May Save Trees.

$50,000,000 LOSS IN U. S.

Department of Agriculture ExpertsThink Virginia Timber May Be Saved.

Washington. August 8.—What experts regard as one of the most important discoveries made by the Department of Agriculture in recent years became known to-day when Frank Meyer, one of the department's explorers cabled that he had discovered the chestnut hilght disease in China. In the Enstern United States this blight has destroyed about $50,000,000 worth of timber. The value of Mr. Meyer's discovery, it was said, lies in the fact that it proves that the disease is an imported one and not native to this country. It had been contended that it was useless to fight it because it was a native growth and liable to break out anywhere in the country.

Mr. Meyer cabled the department that he had found the Chinese chestnut trees around San Tun Ying, Chili province, China, infected with the blight, which started in this country in 1204. In Chine, it does not appear to be so virulent, probably because the chestnuts of China are of different species from those of this country.

According to a statement to-day by Dr. Haven Metcall, in charge of the work for the Department of Agriculture, this discovery proves that those States in this country which are not already infested have hopes of saving their millions of dollars worth of chestnut timber, or at least of holding back indefinitely the progress of the blight, which has been moving westward through Fennsylvania and southward along the Alleghanies into Virginia. If a vigorous fight is continued, he thinks that Virginia, west Virginia, the Carolinas and other States to the west and south may save most of their chestnut trees.

The San Jose scale, which did many millions of dollars worth of damage to the orchards of this country, many of which it wiped out entirely, also came from China.

MONEY CAN'T BUY WAY INTO ENGLISH SOCIETY

of It as Social Favorites in Great Britain.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY. O greater mistake can be made than to imagine that money is an open sesame to English so-clety, and that it is sufficient to be a one, and that it is sandeen to be a millionaire in order to have all doors opened to one. Indeed, the novels, the magazine stories and the plays creating this impression are altogether wrong. In fact, the lot of a parvenu multi-millionaire in England nificence earns abuse.

Thus, Sir Jeseph B. Robinson, who according to popular repute, is far and away the richest of all the South African multi-millionaires, and the diamond king of the world, has, after ar unhappy experience of some or twelve years or more, shake the dust of London from his feet, and has left England for good, with the intention of making from henceforth his permanent home in South Africa, where heart and the state of where he has a magnificent place known as Hawthornden, at Wyburg in Cape Colony.

In South Africa he will always be a very big man, perhaps the greatest financial power of the South African union; a man with even greater means at his command than his oldtime rival, Cecil Rhodes. In England he has been, especially of late, an embittered, disappointed man, of no sicial importance whatever, and who wealth was counted against him. He has got rid of Dudley House, in Park Lane, which is now the property of Queen Alexandra's equerry, the rion John Ward, and of his American wife. daughter of the late Ambassador Whitelaw Reld. He has also managed to dispose of his country seat in the Midlands. In short, he has disposed of all his interests in England.

Sir Joseph is a man of about sixty-four, tall, well built, his fair hair and mustache now liberally sprinkled with gray. He cannot, however, lay any claim to be an empire builder, as were his fellow magnates of South Africa. Thus, Cecil Rhodes spent a fortune in bringing near a million o square miles of South Africa into the British empire; and Beit gave several millions to pay for the expenses of the Transvaal raid in 1896. But Sir until the very last his warm friend and supporter, and the South African Bank, which was his creation, furnished large sums of money to the Boer republic, as long as it lasted. He was a persona gratissima at Pretoria. Indeed, it was generally reported in South Africa at the time that he aimed at becoming President of the Transvaal; and Cecil Rhodes is said to have delayed at one time his operations designed to wreck Kruger, exclaiming that he had no intention of upsetting that worthy, merely in order to enable Joe Robinson to get his place. Of the two men, he preferred Oom Paul.

All this naturally served to render Sir Joseph still more unpopular among the other rich Englishmen in that part variably holding aloof from their en-terprises, and endeavoring to play a the Transvaal has militated against cial sponsors, Lord and Lady Alger-non Gordon Lennox, who are so wellnown on this side of the Atlantic It is known that King Edward had no use whatever for Sir Joseph Robinreluctance that he consented to the grant of his baronetcy, on the nomina-tion of Premier Asquith, in return for themselves as something between a large contribution to the funds of never been noted for his philanthropy, and there are no hospitals or public "degradation rather than distinction institutions, either in England or in in the lust of gain, in the spirit of South Africa, so far as I am aware, that owe their origin or maintenance to his generosity. On the contrary, he was told that it was merely one of his sellish schemes for his personal benefit, since the liberation of the prisoners and the consequent elimination of the severe strain which had up to that moment existed between the governments of England and of the Transvaal, naturally had the effect of causing a rise in those the effect of causing a rise in those South African stocks and securities in which he was especially interested.

What prejudices people so much against these self-made millionaires in England is their tendency to asof sert the possession of their newly won Sir riches in a manner calculated to ofnd their neighbors. They are ap parently oblivious of the fact that it is good form among the most refined and delicate minded people to con ceal rather than to display wealth that it is possible to live well, and even splendidly, without vulgar osten tation; and that they are more likely to make enemies than either friends or admirers among those around them by endeavoring to overwhelm people with a sense of their vast riches. Unaccustomed to the possession of a great fortune, they cannot enjoy what they regard as the full measure of its benefits unless they can make a show of it; and in their efforts in this direction they are, as a rule, encour-aged by a gang of unscrupulous and

Among the curious Christmas presents of this year will be one for a man of national reputation, which has been all year in the making.

Way last January the present was decided upon, and a friend of the prominent gentleman requested the Burrelle Press Clipping Bureau, of New York, to watch every paper in America and to take up every item hich appeared concerning the man.

The clipping bureau people followed instructions, and now present the history of one year in the life of this especial man.

The history ends just after election.

The history ends just after election, and the 20,642 newspaper items found include everything, from a three-line editorial mention to full-page illustrated stories. These have been mounted on 2,200 great sheets of Irish linen paper and bound into three massive volumes.

At the head of each item is the name and date of paper clipped from, this information having been put in with a book typewriter. The words thus inserted amount to 153,252.

In actual time, a very strict record of which has been kept, the work has required sixty-four working days throughout the year, and has kept in employment during that time thirty people as readers, clippers, sorters, people as renders, clippers, sorters, mounters and binders. Every newspaper of importance is represented. This is merely a specimen of some of the unique orders which get inte the Burrelle Bureau, for the extent to which clippings are used by individuals and by business concerns seems to be remarkable. There are many people in private as well as in public life who need press clippings and don't knew it. It might be well for them to look up this man Burrelle, who is said to be so well known that a letter simply addressed Burrelle, New York," will reach his eith no delay.
